COURT OF APPEALS.

DECISIONS RENDERED AT THE AUSTIN SITTING.

The Findings-Hon. John P. White, P. J. J. M. Burt and W. L. Davidson, Associate Judges; P. Walton, Clerk.

Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway vs. Mrs. Kuenhie; from Tom Green. Appellee purchased an excursion ticket from San Angelo to Dallas and return. Before leaving Dallas on her return she failed to sign the ticket in the presence of the agent of ppellants at Dallas or have the latter at tach his stamp thereto, both being required by the stipulation and agreement as contained by said excursion ticket. There was also an agreement on the ticket that no of-ficer of appellant could waive any stipulaheer of appearant contained. Immediately on leaving Dallas the conductor informed her that her ticket was not signed and stamped as required, but that if she would sign it in his presence it would be all right, and this she proceeded to do. Said conductor passed her to Cleburne where his run terminated, and the conductor who then took charge reand the conductor who then took charge re-fused to recognize her ticket as good and in the presence of the passengers ejected her from the train over her protests. Held: 1. It was not error to refuse requested in-structions substantially embodied in the main charge of the court. 2. The court charged the jury that the stipulations in the licket must be complied with, and that the railway was not bound by the act of the conductor in charge at Dallas in recognizing the ticket, and appellant cannot com-plain on this line. It is the belief of the writer, however, that such act of the conductor was binding upon the company and was a waiver of the right of the company to have the holder of the ticket identi pany to have the holder of the theket identi-fied at Dallas. Identification of the original holder and owner of the ticket to prevent a transfer thereof to another party for use, is the object of having the party identified and when this has been done, it is sufficient, if done by an agent or employe of the com-pany, authorized to issue or take up tickets. It is the opinion of the writer that the coart erred in favor of appellant in giving, re-ferred to above. [34 Am., and Eng., 12, cases 344-349]. The authorities agree that the conditions precedent, it can be writed in The circumstances attendent B. The circumstances attendant upon expulsion from the car, whether proper or improper was a question for the jury, and if improper the Jury were authorized to ind damages for indignity, insult and innecessary force. 4. The evidence as to the manner appellant was ejected is conflicting and the jury settled that issue in favor of appellee. Affirmed. Davidson, J.

Ruby Nelson et al. vs. John A. Frey; from Erath. I. Appellants are minors and girls. When their father died be left 100 neres of land which was community property, and used as a homestead. Subsequently their mother remarried, continuing to occupy the land as a homestead. The stepfather was unable to dress appellants, and appellants acreed with their mother and stepfather that if ten acres of ground was set apart for them to cultivate and cuply the proceeds they would clothe them-selves, which proposition was accepted and carried out. Appellants hired the ground plowed for a crop and did the balance of the work themselves. Appellants bought goods for themselves and same were charged to them. Appellee levied on cotton thus raised to secure a debt due by the thus raised to secure a debt due by the stepfather. Appellants through their mother filed affidavits and bond for the cotton. Held: I. The cotton was not liable under the existing circumstances for the debt of the stepfather. The land was not the community property of husband and wife in this case, but was as to her interest the wife's scourate property. There is not a single fact to show that these girls were responsible for the debt of the stepfather, and consequently the cotton could not be held by appellee. Reversed and remanded. Davidson, J.

William Jackson vs. the State; from Williamson. Murder in first degree with life penalty. 1. Appellant made a statement before the examining court denying the murder of his child and saying that he gave it to a traveler. Subsequently and on the same day he made a statement of an gave it to a traveler. Subsequently and on the same day he made a statement, after being duly warned by the court, admitting his guilt and telling were he had murdered and buried his innocent offspring. Under his direction the officers proceeded to a spot in the woods, which the defendant pointed out as the locality where he buried the child. The hole had the appearance of be-ing dug out by animals or birds of prey. Scattered around the hole were numerous small bones, none of them over four inches in length or more than two and a half inches in length or more than two and a half inches in width. Also locks of black, curly hair corresponding with the hair of the supposed murdered child, as well as articles of baby clothing, among which was a black and white spotted bonnet which a witness identified as one his wife had given the child. After this appellant made another statement before the court, after being duly warned, stating all the details of the murder. It was shown that there was trouble between appellant and his wife, and that he had frequently, threatered to kill both his had frequently threatened to kill both his wife and child. A witness testified that he was familiar with the bones of animals, and that the bones found were not those of any animal in that country, but from his knowledge of the human skeleton he believed them to be human bones. Other witnesses gave des-cription of the bones. Dr. Foster, a wit-ness, who heard the witnesses describe the bones, could not say what they were, but that they resembled a child's bones. Held: 1. Witness Staughter having stated that he had seen human skeletons and that the bones resembled human bones, on cross-examination by counsel for appellant stated his reasons for believing them to be human bones. There was no error in admitting this testimony. 2. The confession of appel-lant was admissable against him and the fact that the constable told him it would be best for him to tell the truth, is immaterial. human bones. Other witnesses gave desbest for him to tell the truth, is immaterial. best for him to test the truit, is immaterial. This was not a promise of immunity. 3. The corpus delicti was sufficiently established and proved. Full proof of the body of the crime independent of the confession is not required. 4. Appellant was last seen in company with the child in good health, and the child has never been seen and the child has never been seen since. His confession was found to be true, and the evidence is sufficient both as to the identity of the body and the corpus delicti.

State of Texas vs. E. Stoutsenberger et from Parker. Sult in the name of state for the use and benefit of the county against appellee Stoutsenberger and the sureties on his bond as a retail liquor dealer, to recover the statutory penalty of $500 for the breach of said bond. The al-leged breach of the bond consisted in the keeping of a pool table in his saloon, which was forbidden by the terms of the bond. The court systimed a general demorrer to was forbidden by the terms of the bond. The court sustained a general demurrer to to the petion of the state. Held: This action was correct. The county court had no jurisdiction over the subject matter of the suit, because it is a suit in behalf of the state to recover a penalty. Section 8, article 5 of the constitution provides that the listrict court shall have original jurisdiction of all suits in behalf of the state to re-cover penalties. It is beyond question that this is a suit to recover a penalty and it is in this is a suit to recover a penalty and it is in behalf of the state. Under the act of 1881 suit could have been brought in the county court, but under the act of 1887 it is the duty of county or district attorney, or either of them, to in-stitute suit in the mame of the state of Texas for the use and benegt of the county, while under the act of 1881 the suit had to be brought in the name of the county judge. The county is merely made the ben-eficiary by the legislature. The university. eficiary by the legislature. The university, common schools, asylums, etc., could have been made the beneficiaries, but counties were selected. The county court had no jurisdiction, Affirmed. State of Texas vs. J. S. Maxey et al.; from Parker. 1. The questions involved herein are the same as the Stoutsenberger case, this day decided, and for the reasons therein stated the judgment will not be disturbed. Affirmed. Hurt, J., Davidson, I. vod stitting.

L. C. Woodville et al. vs. State of Texas; from Fannin. 1. Suit by State for use of the county on retail liquor dealer's bond. because of an alleged breach of same. The Stoutsenberger case is decisive of the question in this case. The county court had no jurisdiction. Reversed and dis-missed. Hurt, J., Davidsor, J. did not

Moore Bros. vs. Carley & Brown; from Limestone. 1. If defendants below (appel-lants here) could recoup their debt in an action of this character, which we think doubtful, then the pleadings setting up such matters should be full, definite and specific, and not left to inference, as was done. Moreover, recoupment was not insisted on the trial, if it was at all pleaded. The measure of damages would be the salve of the weeks at the time and place of value of the goods at the time and place of conversion, which time was the day of the sale by the sheriff. Affirmed. Per curiam.

John P. Cox et al vs. D. C. Warnell; from Hill. 1. The demurrers to the plea of intervention were properly sustained. The creditors did not seek to attack the deed of assignment directly, but only col-laterally and incidentally to their attachment suit. The intervenor, Hord, also un-dertook to attack the deed of assignment the same way. Affirmed. Per curiam,

J. B. Shearer vs. the State; from Bell Murder in the first degree with the life penalty assessed. On motion to dismiss, 1. A judgment which fails to recite that the jury were duly charged by the court is not a final judgment. Motion sustained and appeal dismissed. Per curiam, Roscoe Hix et al. vs. J. B. Williams; from Johnson. 1. Limitation was not well plead, and suit was brought in time. 2. The court had jurisdiction of the amount ascertained by the court under the facts. The note was indersed by J. L. Maxey and T. E. Maxey. This appears from the facts and the indorsement. The court did not err in its findings on plea of offset. Affirmed. Per curiam.

Podro Valdez et al. vs. the State: from Wilson. Scire facias. 1. The bond was not received ald approved by the sheriff un-til after the adjournment of court. The bond was not taken during the term of court. A bail bond dates from its approval by the proper officer or his acceptance thereof. Aftirmed. Per curiam, Charles Walden vs. the State; from Wilbarger. Reeping a disorderly house. On motion to dismiss. 1. In a misdemeanor case, where an appeal bond is filed in lieu of a recognizance, and it is shown that appellant is not in custody, jurisdiction of this court will not attach. Appeal dismissed.

DALLAS' FINANCE.

The City Restrained from Paying Its Indebtedness.

THE MAYOR VS. THE COUNCIL.

Atrike Brewing-An Attempt to ict a Child that is Supposed to be the Heir of a Fortune-Sol Richardson a Free Man.

FINANCE.

Special to the Gazette. Dallas, Tex., May 7.—Dallas at the present appears to be in a bad financial way if one is to judge from the temporary injunctions yesterday granted by Judge Burke, restraining the city from the pay-Burke, restraining the city from the pay-ment of $69,143 of debts contracted and for which she has value received.

The debts of the city are evidenced by notes for the amount mentioned, $50,000 of which is for the North park purchase which has so long been a bone of contention by some of the local politicians. The notes were all issued on order of the council and were an issued on order of the council and signed by W. C. Connor, mayor, and W. McGrain, secretary. The grounds for ask-ing the injunction were caused by the fail-ure to comply with the following: 2. That the constitution of the state of Texas, in section 5 of article 11 of the same, provides as follows: "Cities of more than provides as follows: "Cities of more than 10,000 inhabitants may have their charters granted or amended by special act of the granted or amended by special act of the legislature, and may levy, assess and collect such taxes as may be authorized by law; but no tax for any purpose shall ever be levied for any one year which shall exceed 2½ per cent of the taxable property of such city; and no debt shall ever be created by any city unless at the same time provision by made to assess and collect annually a be made to assess and collect annually a sufficient sum to pay the interest thereon and create a sinking fund of at least 2 per cent thereon." And it is further provided in section 7, article 9 of the said constitu-tion of the state of Fexas that "no debt for any purpose shall ever be incurred in any manner by any city or county unless pro-vision is made at the time of creating the same for levying and collecting a suffi tax to pay the interest theron and provide at least 2 per cent as a sinking fund." The payment of the notes in question was not provided for according to the above section, and it now looks as if some of the members of the council wished to repu-diate the debts. The course that will be pursued is not yet given out in case the court grants a permanent injunction.

Under the present Dallas charter there was some question as to who had the right to appoint the standing committees of the council. Mayor Connor thought he had it, while others thought it the duty of the president of the council. Alderman Kline was elected president of the council and he is bitted conversed to Mayor Connor. COUNCIL COMMITTEES. is bitterly opposed to Mayor Connor. A committee of aldermen was appointed to decide who should appoint the standing committees. The report of this committee vested that power in the president of the council. Last night Mr. Kline appointed the committees in full and knocked out the the committees in full and knocked out the Connor supporters from the chairmanship of any of the committees. The chances are for the council to be at loggerheads with the mayor from now on. If this is done Dullas will be in a bad way and the interests of the entire city jeopardized.

THE STRIKE.

The strike among the common labor of Dallas has assumed much greater proportions to-day, and the chances are that the end is a long way off. At a meeting of the Laborers' League held this morning committees were appointed to visit the various. Laborers' League held this morning com-mittees were appointed to visit the various places through the city where common la-bor is employed and demand that the men be given nine hours as a day's work. The committees at once got to work and started on their rounds. At the courthouse all the common labor left the job at noon. The various sewer contracts were visited, but various sewer contracts were visited, but as yet none of the sewer hands are known to have quit work, although it is expected that many men now working on these contracts will be short in the morning. Just to what extent the men throughout the city will participate in the movement cannot now be determined. It is whispered on the streets that all ten-hour labor in the city and of all trades will make a demand for the ping hour system and if it is not granted nine hour system, and if it is not granted them will join the great army of the Dallas unemployed. The cable road has made but little effort to resume work here to-day, although it was supposed that they would attempt to do so. The bad feature about the matter is that the men are in a much worse condition to be without work than capital is to give employment. Dallas has been unusually duil for a long time, and thousands of men have been out of employ thousands of men have been out of employment for the winter months in expectation of spring and summer work epening up and furnishing them employment. Now that the work is offered at wages ranging from $1.50 to $1.75 a day for common labor the question presents itself as to the expediency of refusing to accept it on a basis of ten hours for a day's work. At present there is much contemplated work in Dallas that is not necessary to be done and will that is not necessary to be done, and will not be started if these labor agitations con-tinue. The laboring men are the ones to suffer by the transaction.

About a year ago John Noll and his wif lived in this city. The woman died, leaving two children, one a baby. The children were taken in charge by the German woman's society and afterwards given the family of Jake Eisellah. The order child died, the baby remaining with its fostev parents. The father left Dallas about nine months ago. A woman residing in nine months ago. A woman residing in Galveston, and alleging to be a sister to the deceased, recently arrived in Dallas. The deceased, recently arrived in Danas. The child was stolen from its foster parents, and was afterwards found by them in charge of the Galveston party while going by in a street car. The car was stopped and the foster parents claimed the child. Their claim was disputed by the lady from Galveston. Two policement were called to Galveston. Two policemen were called to Gaiveston. Two policemen were called to quiet the storm, and were made referees in the matter. They said as the child had been given to the Eisellah family, that they should keep the child, at least until better evidence of relationship was proved by the Gaiveston party. The lady from the city by the gulf went off swearing vengance upon the officers, and promised to see them later. DENVER, Con., May 7 .- The body of an between the body of an aged German, supposed to be named Fer-dinand Kreiss, was found lodged on the piers in the Platte river just above the Nineteeth street bridge at an early hour this morning. The body had evidently been in the water several days, as it is badly bloated and presents a horrible appearance. The face is mutilated, and cov-The face is mutilated and covered with blood. Numerous wounds are to be seen on the head, while the tongue protrudes from the mouth in such a manner as to make it appear that the man was choked into insensibility and was probably dead before being thrown into the water. The coat was also partially torn from the body, simply hanging by one arm. The body was discovered about 6 o'clock this morning by a newsboy, who at once telephoned the story of his ghastly find to the coroner's office. At present the murder is shrouded in the deepest mystery, but several clews, which may result in tracing the murderer, have been found and the best men on the city detective force will be put on the case. Since finding the body a careful survey of the surroundings proves that Kreiss was murdered on the Nineteenth street bridge and carried down to the river and thrown in, a trail of blood showing the route taken by the murderers. Where the death strug-gie took place blood is scattered on the bridge and a protruding edge of the railing shows where, in falling, the victim struck the iron. A portion adheres to the railing just above the bridge. Special to the Gazette. BONHAM, TEX., May 7 .- J. J. Renshaw

Bonham, Tex., May 7.—J. J. Renshaw and his son, who live about nine miles south of this city, came to town after some goods. After they had loaded their wagon they proceeded to the saloons and there partook of a liberal supply of whisky and started home pretty drunk. When they got near the depot the team took fright, wheeled around and came dashing back into the city. In their endeavor to stop the runaway team both men were thrown out of the wagon on the doubletree. Old man Renshaw clung to the lines and was dragged about one hundred and fifty yards before about one hundred and fifty yards before he was rescued. Both ears were torn from his head and hung only by a small strip of skin and he was otherwise terribly mutilated. His son was dragged about fifty yards when he fell off and the wagon ran over him, fracturing his skull and otherwise
